1) President's Letter

Dr. Chungwon Choue, President

Dear World Taekwondo family,

This annual report is supposed to highlight the achievements of World Taekwondo in 2019. Nonetheless, at the time of this writing, I cannot help but feel that the COVID-19 pandemic that is sweeping across the world has to take center stage.

To all of you who have lost a loved one or someone you know, or know of someone who does, we at World Taekwondo offer our most sincere condolences. The global pandemic is without doubt one of the worst catastrophes in modern history. Humanity as we know will never be the same again.

Sport, for most of the past year, has rightfully taken a backseat as humanity unites together to overcome this global challenge. The biggest sporting spectacle in the world, the Olympic and Paralympic Games originally meant to be held in Tokyo from July to September this year, had to be postponed till 2021. We stand in solidarity with the Olympic and Paralympic movements, but even at this point of time, we cannot be 100% sure that the Games will be held normally next year.

Almost all international and national events of the International Sports Federations, including World Taekwondo, had to be postponed or cancelled this year for the safety and wellbeing of our stakeholders. For instance, the World Taekwondo Poomsae Championships scheduled in Herning, Denmark, in May this year was cancelled. In addition, we have had to postpone the World Taekwondo Junior Championships in Sofia, Bulgaria from October 2020 to 2022.

We have also not completed two out of five Olympic and Paralympic qualification events for the Tokyo 2020 Games, namely in Asia and in Europe. The list of impacted events grows by the day.

Over the course of this past year, medical experts around the world have come together to understand more of the coronavirus. Consequently, we are beginning to find ways to counteract. We have some ways to go until a cure is developed. Even then, the cure has to be easily accessible to the public. We might have to look at living with the coronavirus for the foreseeable future. It is a “new norm” that we have to consider; the human race will have to adapt and survive.

Sport, therefore, is slowly making a comeback. Sport is not just about results and medals; it is the embodiment of the human spirit to overcome obstacles and adversities. Likewise, the indomitable spirit of Taekwondo lives strong. As we face more adversity, we rise even higher and stronger together.

I am an optimist. The silver lining from the pandemic, if there is one, is that World Taekwondo has taken this slowdown in events to review our operational models to become more sustainable and creative.

World Taekwondo organized its first-ever virtual Council meeting in May this year; originally, we were supposed to be in the Olympic House in Lausanne, Switzerland, at the kind invitation of the IOC President, Dr. Thomas Bach.

We experienced firsthand the efficiency and cost-saving of the virtual Council meeting, as well as scores of online meetings with the World Taekwondo Committees. This method of communication was fast, effective, and sustainable. In its second virtual meeting, the World Taekwondo Council decided to organize the General Assembly in October virtually for the first time in our history, when we decided to postpone the World Taekwondo Junior Championships due to the ongoing pandemic. We are committed to reduce our carbon footprint from organizing events around the world, and expect to keep this method of communication during and even after the pandemic is over.

Due to the lack of onsite events, we have organized online competitions at the world, continental, and national levels. One of the upcoming highlights is the virtual World Taekwondo Poomsae Championships this coming November. Poomsae more than kyorugi has taken a more prominent role in helping the athletes and public stay healthy and active within the safety and comfort of their homes.

Early next year, World Taekwondo will launch a Super Talent Show to showcase the Taekwondo abilities of our fans, and also their creative side. We believe that such activities help people to stay mentally and emotionally strong during these times.

Our online education and certification courses, which had been focused mainly on the training of international referees, have expanded to include coaches, technical delegates, and member national associations. With the launch of our Esports app, we hope to engage with the public on the promotion and standardization of Taekwondo.

Speaking of Esports, World Taekwondo was one of, if not the, first International Sports Federations to become a member of the newly established Global Esports Federation (GEF). We have launched our first app on poomsae education, and another app will be a showcase in the Global Esports Games expected to be organized this coming December. This unique collaboration between a traditional sport like Taekwondo and the GEF is a win for both organizations, as we set out to bring an active sport like Taekwondo to the digital platform and contribute to the healthy lifestyles of the general public.

In this regard, I am honored to be appointed as chair of the International Federations Advisory Council within the GEF, to bridge the understanding of my fellow colleagues from other sports in the benefits of developing their sports in the digital platform.

Slowly but surely, sports and countries have started to organize events again. In preparation of this inevitability, World Taekwondo has developed medical guidelines for the safe return of athletes and officials to training and competition, in conjunction of the medical advice of the World Health Organization and best international practices. We will not compromise the safety and wellbeing of the Taekwondo family.

Finally, I am proud to inform the global Taekwondo family that World Taekwondo has been recognized as one of the best governed International Sports Federations in ASOIF's third governance review. This year, we were grouped in the A2 rank! It is an outstanding result and we will not rest on our laurels as we aim for the highest grade.

World Taekwondo and the Taekwondo Humanitarian Foundation (THF) have also been recognized in the Olympic and Paralympic movements for our contribution to society. World Taekwondo was recognized by FISU as the best International Sports Federation for our dedication to social development through sport.

THF have so far signed Memorandums of Understanding with nine International Sports Federations to date for joint humanitarian and education programs. THF also created a crowdfunding campaign in August to help the children of the tragic blast in Beirut, Lebanon. These activities go a long way to reinforce Taekwondo's relevance and contribution to humankind in today's society.

Soon, the year 2020 will come to a close. It will be remembered as one of the most challenging and polarizing years in history – not only for sports but for humanity in general. As we face the ongoing COVID-19 pandemic, and as we question ourselves in the face of the growing debates over racism and social inequalities, I ask the global Taekwondo family to remember the maxim that has served as my guiding principles all these years:

Chunmyun Choe

"Peace is More Precious Than Triumph."

2) Secretary General's Report

Mr. Hoss Rafaty, Secretary General

2019 Operating Highlights

As you will see in reviewing this Annual Report, the year 2019 was another record-setting one for WT.

The number of Member National Associations reached 210 with the inclusion of Faroe Islands. Today, only five countries with IOC recognized NOCs remain to be included under the WT umbrella (Eretria, Liechtenstein, Maldives, Namibia, and North Korea), and we are actively working with local NOCs and continental and neighboring WT representatives to make this happen. (See page 12 for more details.)

In addition, the number of competitions offering WT ranking points (Promoted and Sanctioned competitions) increased in 2019 to 87, up from 83 the previous year. (See page 36 for more details.)

Overall, over 46 thousand athletes and over 14 thousand officials from 170 countries participated in these events. This represented an increase in the number of participating athletes of almost 8% over the 2018. (See page 36 for more details.)

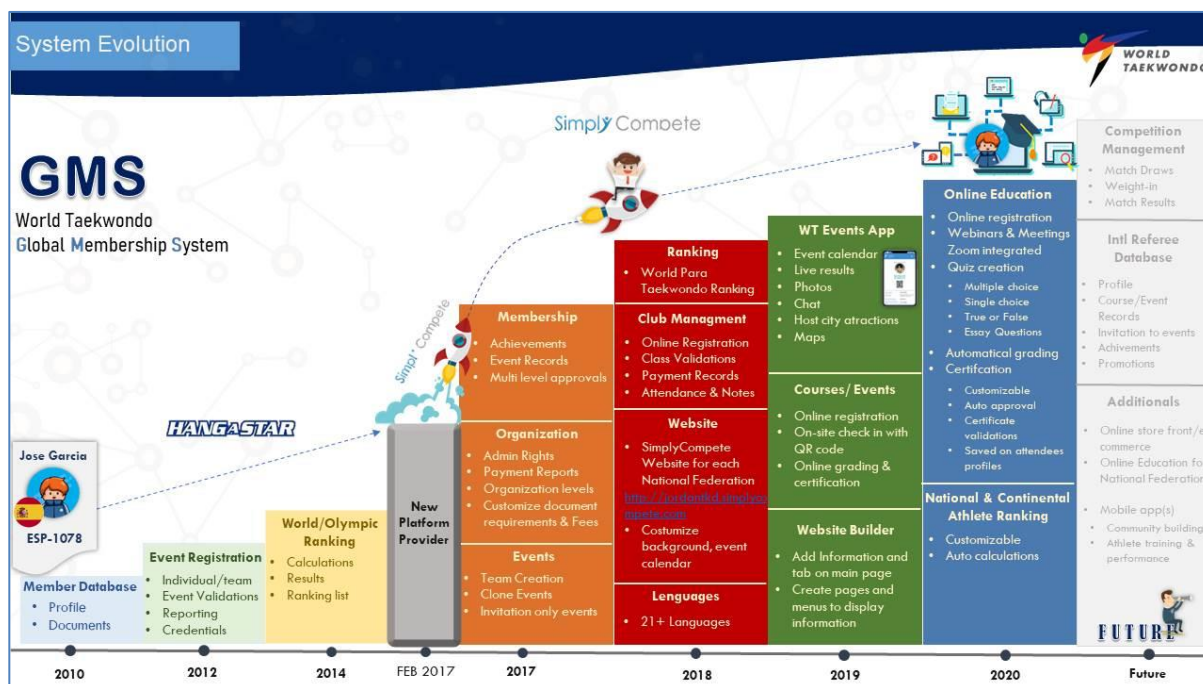

To help increase the opportunities for participation, WT signed MOUs with FISU and CISM to add in more Taekwondo Events. (See page 50 for more details.)

And to promote our sport, the WT Demonstration Team reached conducted performances world-wide, including performances at the IOC, the UN, Vatican City, and on Italy's Got Talent program. This also included more joint-demonstrations with the International Taekwondo Federation (ITF) in the spirit of “One World, One Taekwondo.” (See pages 49 and 51 for more details.)

Our course, we recognize our membership as 210 MNAs+1, with the +1 being refugees. And with the support of our partner Booyoung and in cooperation with Taekwondo Promotion Foundation, and WT provided the Dream Program for refugee athletes to support their training for the Tokyo Olympic Qualification Tournaments. (See page 59 for more details.)

In terms of education, in 2019, WT launched certification courses for Educators and Coaches, and also organized a first-ever Conference, focusing on Sport for Social Development, Safe Sport, Integrity and Compliance. (See page 48 for more details.) And an online education platform will go live next year, together with comprehensive development programs for MNAs to provide consistent education in operations, participation and development.

And as our information and coordination backbone, the Global Membership System continued to introduce new features and options to support all WT initiatives listed above, and more. (See page 65 for more details.)

Update on Strategic Planning

The most recent high-level update to WT's strategic framework was approved by the Council in December during its meeting in Moscow, Russia. The following priorities were approved:

- 1) Create a solid foundation for sustainable improvement
- 2) Build a strong ecosystem of members and events
- 3) Ensure exceptional value-added to the Olympic and Paralympic movements and to the communities at large

Originally adopted by the General Assembly in Muju in June 2017, the strategic framework concept first emerged from an Independent Advisory Group appointed by WT President Dr. Chungwon Choue in early 2017.

This panel included Mr. Giovanni DiCola (Advisor to the International Labor Organization), Mr. Andrew Ryan (Executive Director of ASOIF), and Mr. Claude Marshall (consultant to the UNHCR and member of the Taekwondo Humanitarian Foundation board).

Since the 2017 meeting, WT's strategic priorities have been continuously refined under the guidance of Mr. DiCola, who has since become chair of WT's Sustainability Committee, as movement in other parts of the strategic framework provided new information, leading to the December update.

Evolution of WT's Strategic Priorities:

Strategic Priorities
Priority Areas	Initiatives
Value Added to the Olympic Movement	Improve key indicators (Governance / TV/Social Media, etc)
	Champion of Olympic Values & Principles
Development of Sport & Member Base	Improve events & events calendar
	Greater support to MNAs (resources, education, training)
Brand Development	Improve sports presentation
	Improve marketing communication

The process of turning the priorities into specific objectives and—ultimately—into defined outcomes and key indicators is ongoing, and WT expects to publish a comprehensive roadmap next year.

In addition to articulating WT’s strategic priorities, at its inception, the strategic framework call for a three-stage implementation process designed to transform and streamline WT’s operations and governance structures so as to be better able to execute the initiatives.

Restructuring

WT is undertaking a three step process intended to comprehensively transform the organization.

This will reach at least as far as the continental level in terms of operations.

It will reach the individual club level in terms of branding.

The following slides are notes to the envisioned restructuring process.

High performance in 3 steps

1	Strategic Planning	DEFINE STRATEGY Define the organizations strategy: what it wants to achieve, and how it plans to achieve it

2	Change Management	TRANSFORM ORGANIZATION Carefully mange the change of structure & processes as needed to match needs of strategy

This restructuring plan has been a critical roadmap for many of the reforms that WT has undertaken over the past three years, starting first with changes to the Council in 2017, followed by changes to WT’s operating departments in 2018.

And most recently, WT committees were restructured in during the General Assembly held in Manchester in May 2019.

The restructuring of committees including a reduction in the number of committees and subcommittees from 21 to 17, a drop in the size of committee from ‘up to nine(9) members’ down to ‘up to five(5) members’.

Also, more detailed Terms of Reference were created and published for each committee in order to better clarify the mission of each committee and to establish more detailed reporting requirements.

As we move into 2021-25 cycle, WT will continue to refine our operating and governance structures in line with the strategic framework with twin objective of optimizing both effectiveness and sustainability.

Update on Good Governance Initiative

Targeting ASOIF Indicators

In 2019, WT continued to upgrade governance rules and practices, with a target of achieving an “A” ranking in the 2019/20 Association of Summer Olympic International Federation (ASOIF) governance assessment, with the results to be announced in mid-2020.

The current governance-improvement drive, which is designed around the ASOIF survey indicators, was formally launched in mid-2016. But for WT, strengthening governance has been a priority since at least 2010.

At that time, WT President Dr. Chungwon Choue made the decision to prioritize good governance was in order to counteract a series of setback that WT had faced in the preceding years.

The decision to enhance governance proved to be an excellent one, as the stable environment that WT’s improved governance framework helped to create allowed WT to channel more time and resources on others areas, such as introducing new competition formats and technology, as well as launching social and humanitarian initiatives, thereby helping to maximize WT’s contribution to the Olympic Movement.

The following are some highlight of WT’s governance improvement initiative since 2010, some of the improvements introduced in 2019, and a glimpse at things to come.

	Governance Improvements Select Highlights from 2010 to 2019

Extension of Good Governance Programs to Members

We believe we are well-poised for a good result in ASOIF's 2019/20 assessment. But whatever the results, WT will continue our governance improvement drives.

Not only will we continue to refine our rules and practices and adopted new standards as they become available at the WT level, but also we will continue the process of educating and evaluating our members to achieve a standardized governance framework down to the national federation level.

In particular, we are now finalizing a second restatement of the WT Statutes based on best practices identified by the ASOIF governance survey. In addition, Model Continental Union Statutes based on the WT Restatement are also being prepared, along with updated model rules and guidelines for our national federation members. All of this will be supported by new education programs targeting administrators and other stakeholder, as well as more integration of our disputes management framework. And we are enhancing the functionality of our GMS, not only for education and certification, but also to enhance monitoring and enforcement.

WT Anti-Doping Fund

WT Anti-Doping Team collected from 2019 recognized events a doping fund to be reinvested on Anti-Doping Activities.

We would like to thank all LOCs that contributed to maintain Taekwondo a clean Sport.

Main Anti-doping Activities in 2019

Provision of an adequate budget for Anti-Doping Programs:

The provision of an adequate budget was one the key elements that allowed WT to make in place all the 2019's implementations. WT leadership adhered to the proposal of the Anti-Doping Director and gave him the resources to implement all policies.

WT Anti-Doping Program Commitments and Goals:

Sport cannot exist without fairness, and WADA sets the most stringent standards when it comes to detecting the most insidious form of cheating – doping. WT is grateful for the support we have received from WADA to bring our standards to the highest level.

In 2016 we participated in the WADA “Partnership to Quality” program. The consulting WADA provided then allowed us to fill in the gaps in our systems. In March 2018, we were gratified to be one of the first International Federations to be declared compliant under WADA’s compliance-review program. WT recognizes the importance of maintaining clean sport: in 2017, we increased our anti-doping budget ten-fold. Since beginning of 2017 WT entered a partnership with GAISF Doping Free Sport Unit, which offers us expertise and technologies as we create intelligent and effective anti-doping program.

From 2018 we have been cooperating with the International Testing Agency (ITA) in a new and productive collaboration.

Thanks to our investments, the number of players we are testing per year has tripled since 2017 for In and Out Of Competition Tests. Our testing criteria change in every competition, in order to be unpredictable. Thanks to technology, we can target the right athletes, at the right events, based on taekwondo-specific risk assessments.

Since 2017, we adopted an Athlete Biological Passport program for athletes who compete globally by contracting an Athlete Passport Management Unit

(APMU) that is associated with the WADA accredited Lab. Under a contract with that Swiss laboratory, all our samples are reviewed, and the lab provides feedback. Thanks to the APMU, all international Taekwondo athletes are now screened consistently. We also store suspicious samples long-term, so we will be able to make new analysis in the future when technology improves.

Since July 2017, WT has managed anti-doping at all recognized international tournaments on our calendar: We select the athletes; decide which tests are required; and pay for those tests.

To ensure fairness, WT formed a new Hearing Panel in 2018, composed of antidoping experts and result-management experts. All are external professionals, which avoids possible conflict of interest and ensures complete independence.

We also have a whistleblower program linked to our website, so any concerned athletes or coaches can contact related staff, with their confidentiality guaranteed.

Our anti-doping efforts extend to education and outreach, all detailed in our vision through 2020 for anti-doping education.

Though centered on the WT website, education programs include booths at events where people take online quizzes related to doping, and films which run on LED displays at events, in which star Taekwondo athletes spread the antidoping message.

Our anti-doping educational extends to officials, referees, juniors, cadets, Para athletes, parents, media and general public. In 2018, we had also the first antidoping education session at our Poomsae World Championships.

At Tokyo 2020, Para Taekwondo will be contested for the first time, so we are upgrading efforts in that area. For example, we provided a Therapeutic Use Exception seminars & general Anti-Doping Education at 2017 & 2019 World Para Taekwondo Championships in London and Antalya.

In 2019, WT conducted 4 main Education Sessions during the following championships: 8th WT World Para-Taekwondo Championships; Manchester 2019 World Taekwondo Championships; Tashkent 2019 World Taekwondo Cadet Championships; and Wuxi 2019 World Taekwondo World Cup Team & Poomsae Championships.

Taekwondo is at low-risk for doping as we are neither a power sport nor an endurance sport, but our critical risk is weight cutting.

To counter dangerous weight loss and diuretic use, in 2018 we introduced random weight-ins, one hour before matches. This encourages athletes to adopt sustainable diets or move to more appropriate weight categories.

In the year of 2019 19 ADRVs have been registered in total in the sport of Taekwondo. 14 at National Level and 4 in International Level (under WT authority). 20 ADRV Cases have been closed, 14 at National Level and 6 in International Level by the WT Hearing Panel. 2 International Cases registered in 2019 are still under investigation.

Several investigations have been followed and the most robust is the investigation on Russian Athletes in cooperation with WADA and the LIMS. WT produced a new report in 2019 with an external expert. New intelligence will be provided to WT by the LIMS and the final decisions are expected to come before the Tokyo 2020 Olympic Games.

WT will continue to increase the level of our anti-doping programme the closer we get to the Olympic and Paralympic Games. Our goal is ambitious but feasible: building an anti-doping culture and achieving total absence of doping in our sport.

No sport trains the kick in as much detail or variety as Taekwondo. We intend to continue working with our partners in WADA to kick doping out of sport.

Selection of the 2019 WT Registered Testing Pool (RTP) & Criteria

WT shall have the responsibility to ensure that every MNA conducts all national level testing on its athletes in strict compliance with WT Anti-Doping Rules and WADA Code.

WT should select a certain number of international athletes for Registered Testing Pool (RTP) & Testing Pool (TP) and let them provide online filing of their whereabouts information on ADAMS of WADA website that is going to be used by ADOs such as WADA, IF and NADOs to locate the athletes for purpose of out-of-competition doping tests.

In this respect, it is the responsibility of the athletes on the RTP to make themselves available for testing. IST clause 11.3 sets out in detail what whereabouts information must be provided by an athlete in RTP, and when and where daily information is required.

WT has selected athletes to be listed for 2019 WT RTP & TP based on the following principles and considerations:

- Risk Assessment in Taekwondo;
- Top 40 Male athletes and 30 Female athletes of the 2018 January WT Olympic Ranking;
- Medalists from Rio Olympic Games;
- Athletes without NADO in their countries;
- Athletes not selected in their countries' RTP;

- Recently injured athletes;
- Athletes that registered high performance in one month;
- Athletes with sudden withdrawal record from WT Promoted Championships;
- Athletes not tested out of competition in the past one year;
- Athletes with a suspicious behavior;
- Athletes with previous Unsuccessful Attempt Failure record;
- Inclusion of Para-Taekwondo athletes;
- Inclusion of Junior division athletes potentially competitive for next Olympic Games;
- Inclusion of athletes suspended for Anti-Doping Rule Violation;
- Inclusion of athletes with an Atypical Finding record;
- Consideration of weight division balance;
- Consideration of continental allocation balance;
- Consideration of gender balance.

2019 WADA Symposium:

(March 13-14, 2019 / SwissTech Convention Center, Lausanne, Switzerland)

A review of the World Anti-Doping Code (Code) and its associated International Standards, as well as compliance and capturing athletes' views were among the main themes at the World Anti-Doping Agency's (WADA's) 15th Annual Symposium held this week in Lausanne, Switzerland.

The WADA Symposium, which is the leading fixture on the anti-doping calendar, gathered close to 900 delegates from the global anti-doping community for two days of presentations, interviews, panel discussions, practical workshops and networking sessions. Athlete representatives, International Sports Federations, government representatives, National and Regional Anti-Doping Organisations, Major Event Organisers, WADA-accredited laboratories and Athlete Passport Management Units, as well as international media and other stakeholders, gathered on 13 and 14 March under the theme "Towards 2021 – Navigating the Future Together".

2021 will be the year when the latest revised and updated Code comes into effect and the world's anti-doping stakeholders are currently finalising the document in time for its ratification at the fifth World Conference on Doping in Sport, which will take place in November in Katowice, Poland. In addition, the Code's various International Standards, including those related to results management, education, compliance, testing and investigations, therapeutic use exemptions, laboratories and privacy protection were discussed at length during the Symposium.

Athletes were well represented during the conference. In particular, around 75 athlete leaders gathered from around the world for a one-and-a-half-day session for them and their representatives. The session, which was hosted by WADA's Athlete Committee, for the first time as part of the Agency's Annual Symposium, reinforced the importance of athletes' involvement in clean sport. Specifically, the session addressed topics such as increased athlete representation within WADA's governance structure, the impact the proposed changes in the 2021 draft Code may have on athletes, and the upcoming launch of ADAMS Next Gen – the latest revamped and improved version of the system.

Representatives from the Athlete Commission of the Japan Anti-Doping Agency introduced their programme called Play True 2020 that aims to create a better society through the values of sport and to protect the right of an athlete to participate in clean sport.

A Symposium highlight came as WADA's Athlete Committee members Beckie Scott (Chair) and Ben Sandford gave an update in plenary session on the progress of the development of the Anti-Doping Charter of Athlete Rights, a topic that was also discussed at length during the athlete session.

The keynote address by WADA President Sir Craig Reedie on day one, entitled “Unity Will Be Our Strength”, set the tone for the Symposium as he reflected on the Russian doping scandal and on the progress made since the Executive Committee (ExCo) decision in September 2018 to reinstate the Russian Anti-Doping Agency (RUSADA) as compliant with the Code. Sir Craig noted that the all-important data recovered from the Moscow Laboratory in January this year, once authenticated, would be used to bring more cheats to justice for the good of clean sport while exonerating others. He also pointed out that the Russian scandal had prompted the establishment of new priorities and led to significant changes that had already equipped the Agency to better navigate situations of non-compliance with the Code, including the coming into force on 1 April 2018 of the International Standard for Code Compliance by Signatories (ISCCS), which has considerably strengthened WADA’s legal framework around cases of non-compliance.

WADA Director General, Olivier Niggli, took delegates through WADA’s strategic priorities, which in addition to those outlined by Sir Craig, included in particular: harmonising Code rules via the 2021 Code Review and simultaneous review of the International Standards; the implementation of wide-ranging governance reforms, increasing scientific and social science research; enhancing education, most notably through the development of an International Standard for Education; capacity building of Anti-Doping Organizations; and the ongoing overhaul of WADA’s Anti-Doping Administration and Management System (ADAMS).

– After the World Conference on Doping in Sport, which will take place in November 2019 we will start preparing for the new Code that will come into force in 2021. As it seems now, the Code will continue to become more flexible, but at the same time the new International Standards will set clearer directions on how to plan the daily activities.

GMS: Past, Present, Future

The initial development of Global Membership System (GMS) began in 2007. Since that time the GMS has taken on a central role in WT events and member management, taking over promoted event registration (online and onsite) in 2012, and ranking point data collection and calculation in 2014, and online event registration for other WT-recognized events in 2016.

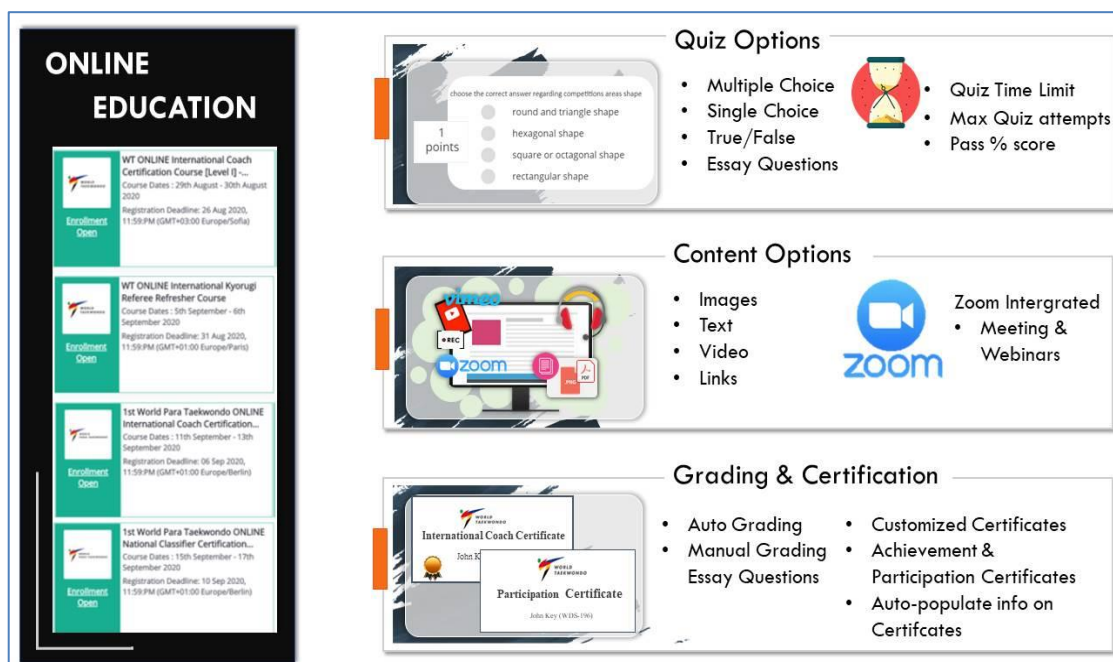

But more than just event registration and ranking point, the GMS provides the virtual infrastructure for a many of WT's current initiatives to improve our member-targeted services.

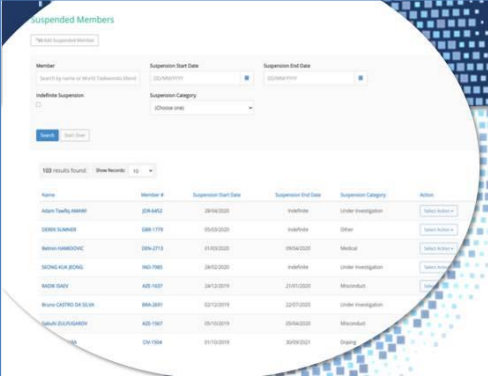

Soon the GMS will be able to offer 'door-to-door' event participation services to athletes, officials, media and other stakeholders.

And exclusively for member development, GMS provides an integrated platform for WT's online education and certification courses.

The GMS is also a valuable tool for WT's governance and compliance initiatives, providing a direct link to members and events for monitoring and enforcement.

III. FINANCIAL REPORT AND BUDGET

Mr. Pimol Srivikorn,
Treasurer, Finance Committee Chair

Commentary

For the Financial Year 2019, WT realized US$9.22 million in operating revenue. This was an increase of US$.23 million recorded in FY2018.

One of the main sources of income was the IOC Subsidy stemming from the RIO Olympic Games distribution. The amount was US$3.69 million. Additionally, there was US$1.56 million from marketing activities and US$1.40 million related to WT's humanitarian activities.

Operating expenses for FY2019 totaled US$10.83 million, up US$.98 million from the previous year. Operations accounted for the majority of expenses, at US$3.65 million. Added to this are expenses for the development fund of US$1.36 million and for the support to competitions and events of US$1.26 million. Overall, WT had made a net loss of US$.80 million for FY 2019.

Finally, at the time of this writing, the COVID-19 pandemic is in full blown around the world. Consequently, WT is working very hard to curb all expenses for FY 2020 since revenue is expected to decrease significantly due to delay of the Tokyo Olympic Games along with cancellations of several major competition events.
